Voices of Conviction: CCA Interhouse Elocution Competition (Grades 9–12)

The power of spoken word echoed through the school as students from Grades 9 to 12 participated in the dynamic CCA Interhouse Elocution Competition, held under the theme: "The Impact of Social Media on Youth."

Organized as part of the school's robust Co-Curricular Activities program, the event saw fierce yet friendly competition among the four houses. Each participant brought forth unique perspectives, addressing the many facets of social media—from its role in education, awareness, and connectivity to its challenges such as distraction, mental health concerns, and peer pressure.

With eloquence and clarity, students explored both the positive and negative influences of social media in the lives of young people. Some highlighted its potential as a platform for learning, expression, and activism, while others raised concerns about cyberbullying, digital addiction, and unrealistic comparisons.

Judged on content, articulation, confidence, voice modulation, and stage presence, the speakers impressed both the panel and the audience with their thought-provoking arguments and persuasive delivery. The competition not only showcased excellent public speaking skills but also reflected the students' maturity and critical thinking.

Creativity on Display: CCA House Bulletin Board Decoration Competition

The school corridors recently turned into vibrant galleries of creativity as all four houses participated in the much-loved CCA House Bulletin Board Decoration Competition. With a burst of colors, clever designs, and thoughtful themes, the competition brought out the artistic flair and collaborative spirit of our students.

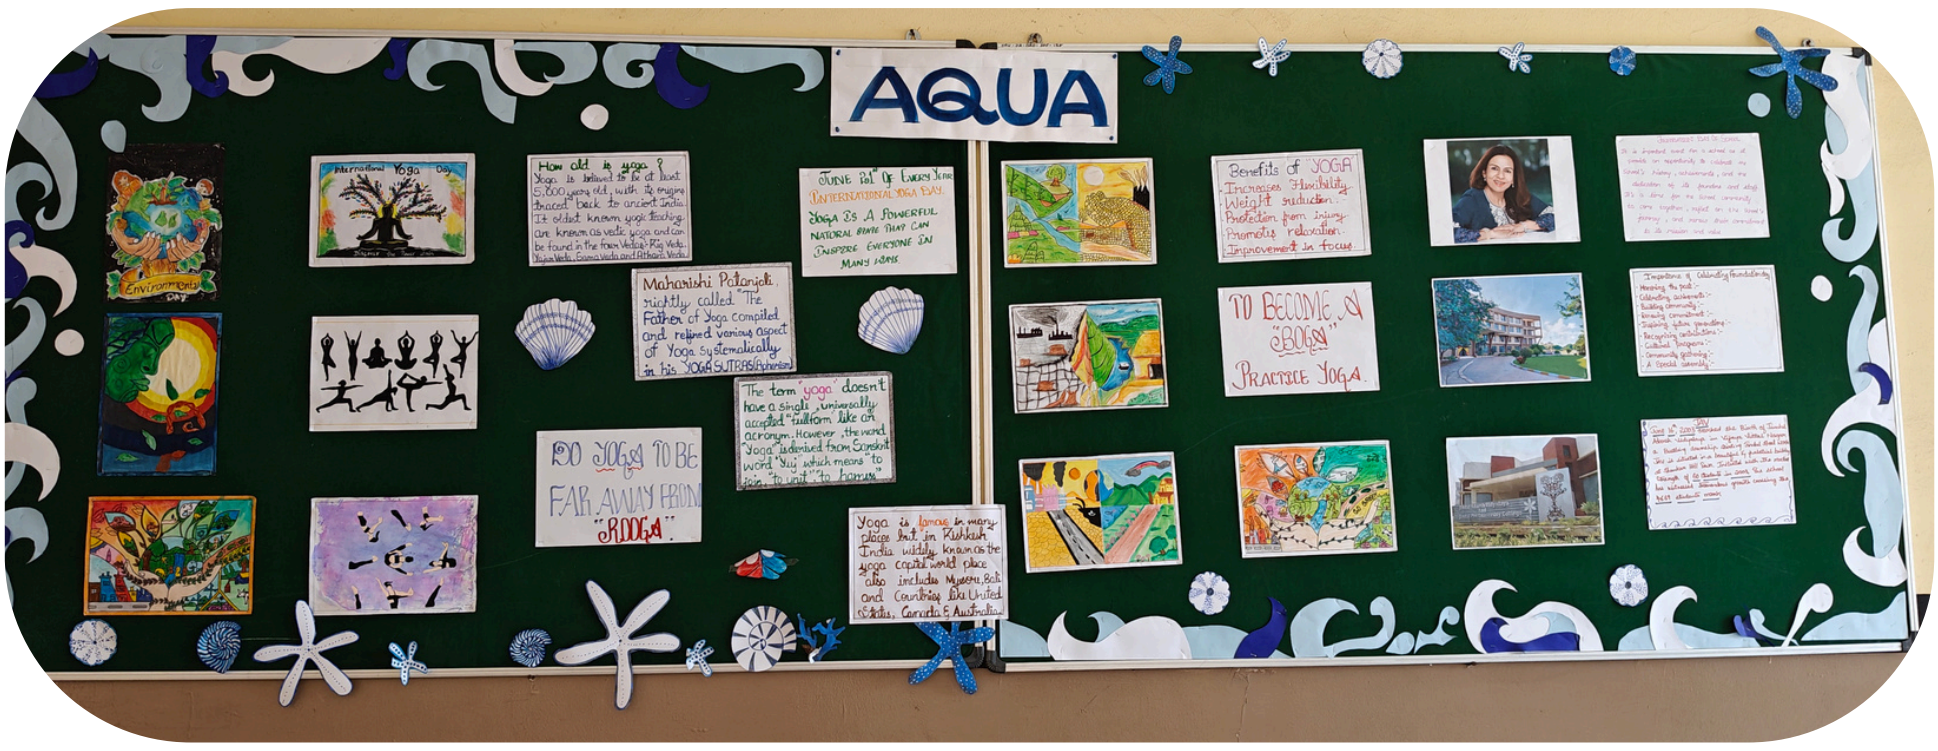

This year's competition encouraged houses to decorate their boards around a central theme that reflected current events, social awareness, or cultural pride. Each house interpreted the theme in its unique way, combining art, information, and innovation to create visually striking and meaningful displays.

From eye-catching headlines and handcrafted illustrations to well-researched articles, motivational quotes, and interactive elements, the bulletin boards showcased the hard work, creativity, and teamwork of each house. It wasn’t just about decoration—it was about storytelling and communication.

More importantly, the beautifully decorated boards became sources of inspiration for the entire school community.

Editorial Message

As we embrace the vibrant spirit of June, our campus is alive with enthusiasm, purpose, and the joy of new beginnings. The start of a fresh academic session has filled our corridors with renewed energy, welcoming new students, new ideas, and new aspirations.

This month has been a colorful blend of activity and learning. Our Co-Curricular Activities (CCA) competitions ignited a wave of creativity and healthy competition across grades. Whether in music, art, debate, or drama, the talent and dedication displayed by our students have set a high benchmark for the year ahead.

June also brought a deeper connection to nature and self. We marked Environment Day with impactful awareness campaigns and student-led green initiatives, reminding us of our vital role in protecting the planet. In harmony with this spirit, we celebrated International Yoga Day, where students and staff came together to explore the timeless benefits of yoga. It was a moment of mindfulness, unity, and reflection—helping us reconnect with our inner balance.

Another highlight of the month was the Student Council Elections. Our aspiring leaders campaigned with vision and responsibility, engaging their peers in meaningful dialogue and showcasing the values of democracy and participation. These future changemakers give us confidence in a bright and compassionate tomorrow.

We also conducted awareness sessions on topics that matter—mental health, online safety, and responsible citizenship—equipping our students with the knowledge and empathy needed to thrive in today's world.

As we move forward, let's continue nurturing this spirit of enthusiasm, exploration, and excellence. June has been a wonderful beginning—may it pave the way for a year filled with learning, leadership, and lasting memories.

Warm regards,
