From Principal's Desk:

Namaskar Dear All,

Festival greetings! At the outset, I would like to congratulate and appreciate the sports department for bringing laurels to the institution. The student's participation and achievements in various inter school events organised by the District Sports Office are the outcome of their perseverance, hardwork and dedication. We owe this success to the parents for their constant support and cooperation towards the participation of their wards.

This month the school environment was observed to be more vibrant since the toe tapping performances and musical energizers by the children added vivaciousness and positivity while they performed garbha together during the morning assemblies. The teacher pupil relationship was adorned with musical beats which indeed strengthens the bonding and overall well-being.

Amidst all the celebrations, the efforts were taken to prepare children at the academic front and life skills as well. I would like to urge the parents to be with their wards while they prepare for exams. Needless to say, with parents' support, children can face every exam of their lives with confidence. Let us together boost their confidence to come out with flying colours.

The 100 percent participation of JVM family in the Global Hand wash day commemorated the SDG no 03 -Good health and wellbeing to raise awareness for health and hygiene. Special thanks to the GPO, Nagpur, Government of India for facilitating the educational tour for the JVM students to support their learning beyond classrooms.

The continuum of good practices at JVM is indicative of the collaboration amidst it's stakeholders and we look forward to cherish the same.

Best wishes! Pallavi Chakkilala Principal

Are you disciplined?

First of all, let me ask you all, what do you mean by the term 'discipline'? I would say that discipline means 'controlling one's behavior'. Oh you all must be then wondering; why would anyone want to control someone's behavior? The reasons are obvious. We live in this diverse world with many other people, each one unique and different. In order to live together harmoniously, we must have some sort of etiquettes guiding our social behavior. Without these world would be in chaos and we would not be able to live together at all.

However, too much discipline can become inhibitive to the point that our creative energy does not find any outlet. This can cause more problems than actually solving some.

In School, there are certain codes of behavior defined for the smooth running of the school. Like, we should come to school at a fixed time etc. Also, all lessons and activities are carried out according to a pre-planned and disciplined schedule. This is necessary, If we do not follow a schedule, there will be wastage of time and energy in figuring out things well.

Well branching it ahead i believe, by far the most important disciplinary factor at home is and should be love. Love and care brings the family together, nullifying all the types of disharmony. A Family devoid of love is doomed to break, sooner or later. No amount of disciplinary action can prevent it.

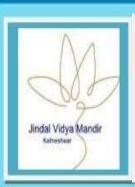

It would be nice if the school practices a similar kind of genuine love and care. I am not saying that there are none. we can add a pinch more to it. However, it is not so easy because the school has so many variety of people. Someday, maybe we would be able to reach some kind of mutual understanding on this matter. Till then we will have to do behave disciplined and follow rules and regulations. No matter how undesirable they may be sometimes, they are for our better.

Remember: "Decisions helps us start.

Discipline helps us finish."
