Every school is a great school. It is important for all stake holders to manage & utilize the resources to its potential and to build a long lasting relationship with each other. In the present century, there is a need to transform the educational structure of the school through progressive interventions. In order to enhance systematic, high quality professional development, an intensive support program empowered with the latest developments in the field of education is the need of the hour. Schools are committed & working for the holistic development of the child by focusing on self-esteem, social interaction, social-emotional learning & to inculcate specific skills among the students. Along with academic excellence, focus on developing hard skills, labour skills, life skills and soft skills are to be given importance in the educational institutions.

A child must acquire interpersonal skills and cooperation to develop skills of teamwork, responsibility, assertive communication, social influence and adaptability. The available resources with the school must be utilized constructively and sustainably. The success of this systematic approach depends on teamwork, networking, self-evaluation and taking initiatives. A systematic approach in the education system will help to deal with the technological, demographic and socio-economic changes in the society. 21st century children are smart enough to be aware of what they want, from where to get it and how to get it. It is our responsibility to give them holistic knowledge to acquire various skills to change with the rapidly changing social scenario to lead a life in its perspective. By reinventing the education system young minds of the today can meet the challenges of tomorrow. “An investment in knowledge pays the best interest” — Benjamin Franklin

Sri Lankan economic crisis

Sameer Negi
CI-X

In January 2021, the Sri Lankan Government declared officially that the country was hit by the worst economic crisis in its 73 year history.

On March 18, 2022 India extended a USD 1 billion line of credit to Sri Lanka on Thursday to help the country deal with the economic crisis.

How did a country, which in recent years, was doing well on all economic fronts as well on human development indices, come to face such an unprecedented crisis?

It is not because of a single factor, but a myriad of factors responsible for the current economic crisis.

The IMF officials identified corruption as a key issue and the IMF “Governance diagnostic mission” is assessing the governance and anti-corruption framework of Sri Lanka.

In 2022, Sri Lanka defaulted on its foreign debt and faced a severe foreign reserve crunch.

Sri Lankan President Ranil Wickremesinghe after securing a loan under EFF announced that Sri Lanka is no longer a bankrupt country and the loan by IMF will provide assurance to world countries that Sri Lanka can service its debt.

India, Japan and China, being the crisis-hit nation’s top three bilateral creditors, provided financial assurances for the loan provided by the IMF.
