Better Version Standing on the mountain top, With lot's of emotions going on in a flock. Overcoming the sorrow of dark cloud, Cheer of success is coming from my heart.loud. Watching the nature being silent, Enjoying the joy of moment. I have remained silent, Even when the moments seemed to be violent. Many emotions are going in me, Life has taught me that hard work is the success key. I won't let negativity control over me, As I know what is important for me. In the time when people would leave me alone, I will fly out of this emotionless dome. When people would try to isolate me, I would show them the better version of me. - Minerva Das JVM,Vasind

Participants were given a unique challenge where they were shown a painting for two minutes. They then had 20 minutes to compose a poem inspired by the painting. This format tested not only their creative writing skills but also their ability to quickly interpret and express the visual stimulus through poetry.

Minerva Das demonstrated exceptional talent and creativity, crafting a compelling poem that captured the essence of the painting. Her ability to interpret the artwork and express it in poetic form within the given time frame was commendable. The judges were highly impressed by the vivid imagery and emotional depth of Minerva's poem, which ultimately led to their first-place win.
